NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans of World War I, World War II or the Korean-conflict period who are permanently and totally disabled from reasons not traceable to service — who are credited with 90 days or more service, unless they were discharged sooner for a line-of-duty disability, and were discharged under other than dishonorable conditions — are eligible for Veterans Administration pension payments, Carlton W. Bragg of the Lynchburg VA Office said today. Bragg said many inquiries have been received at its offices in recent weeks about the requirement for pension and for compensation payments. The difference between these two, according to Bragg is that pension payments are for non-service - connected disabilities, compensation for service-connected.

Pensions are payable by VA only if the veteran who is otherwise eligible has income from other

VIRGINIA INCREASES WOOL PRODUCTION

An increase in the number of sheep shorn, plus an increase in average fleece weights, is adding up to increased wool production in Virginia, and in the nation, reports R. O. Russell, assistant agricultural economist at VPI.

The Virginia wool clip has been estimated at 1,844,000 pounds grease basic for this year, the state's largest wool clip since 1956. The number of sheep shorn in Virginia in 1959 was estimated at 318,000 head, with fleece weights averaging 5.8 pounds. Virginia's wool clip has increased each year for the past 11 years. Yet, wool production in Virginia accounts for less than 1 per cent of the domestic wool clip.

Nationally the 1959 wool clip has been estimated at 251,929,000 lbs. grease basic, the largest wool clip since 1946 and 5 per cent above the 1958 clip. Number of sheep shorn, or to be shorn this year, totals near 31,000,000 head, 3 per cent above last year. Fleece weights are expected to average 8.25 pounds compared to 8.15 pounds in 1958.

BAREBACKED BROILERS CAUSE CUT PROFITS

Barebacked broilers can cost the broiler producer many a penny.

Poultry specialists at VPI say Virginia processing plants are consuming too many barebacked birds — most of them victims of feather-picking — are being received. The processor is apt to discount the price per pound by as much as 3c when he sees a number of barebacks in a flock of chickens.

Since the main cause of barebacked broilers is feather picking, the difficulty can be overcome by debeaking. Debeaking can best be done at one day of age. Considering labor costs, health of the birds, and convenience, debeaking can best be done by the hatchery. Satisfactory, fast, accurate debeaking machines are available and in use in most all hatcheries in Virginia. The cost of debeaking a day old chick is seldom over 1-2c per chick. The low added cost is well returned in the market price.

The VPI specialists say that several debeaking experiments conducted in various parts of the country indicate that removing 1-3 of upper beak controls feather picking without any significant effect on either weight or feed conversion. Removing 2-3 of the upper beak may retard growth. With only 1-3 of the beak removed, the beak will grow out to nearly normal size by marketing age, but will not develop a horny tip and the ious feather picking before they are marketed.

INSECT SURVEY CITED BY VPI ENTOMOLOGISTS

Bagworms are causing trouble on ornamentals in some areas of Virginia, report VPI entomologists in their weekly summary of insect activity in Virginia.

The bagworms should be sprayed immediately with 8 pounds of lead arsenate per 100 gallons of water. Toxaphane and DDT will control them now. They will soon pupate and then spinning and burning is the only solution to the problem.

Magnolia scale is heavy in some counties. Use malthion where the crawlers are present. Malathion also will control aphids which become troublesome at many vegetable and ornamental plants at this season.

TB ASSOCIATION BOARD AGREES TO STRESS X-RAYS

The Case and Fact Finding committee of the Southside Tuberculosis Association has recommended a plan of action to encourage regular chest x-rays among baby-sitters and to enlist the support of employers in annual chest x-rays for their employees.

The committee, headed by Dr. Charles W .Scott, Director of Piedmond Sanatorium at Burkeville, made that recommendation to the Association's board of directors meeting in quarterly session here Tuesday.

The board agreed to attempt both as projects for the coming year.

Members also voted to put Association reserves behind the Southside Health District's chest x-ray survey in Buckingham County scheduled August 18 to 21.

The clinic is expecting increased numbers because a canvass of the county by volunteer workers has recruited the support of numerous residents not previously x-rayed.

DOCTOR TALK

By John B. Rembert, M. D.

Since the days of World War II we have all heard much about the four freedoms — the freedom of worship, the freedom of speech, the freedom from fear, and the freedom from want. These freedoms we all accept as basic democratic principles and rightly so. Now, in this year, 1959, the American physician, and we hope the majority of people of our nation, must insist upon a Fifth Freedom. The Freedom of Choice.

Perhaps most are familiar with the happenings in the past decade that have brought about the need those not so informed, a little review of past events is in order. for this fifth freedom. But, for

Since the end of the war and the popular vogue of being "ultra liberal" has been a fashion, the private practicing physician of America is experiencing more and more threats to the continuance of his work as a private individual tending to the medical care of those choosing to seek his assistance.

The "ultra liberals" or third parties have become more and more involved in the business of providing medical and hospital care in competition to the private practice of medicine.

In the beginning their health and welfare programs began as a simple "insurance" program, but more recently the programs have taken on responsibilities formerly assumed by their members. Now many of these groups demand that they have the right and are exercising the right of selecting hospitals and physicians for their members, without regard for the individual's own personal wishes.

Private physicians and organized medicine across America has not opposed these health and welfare programs but they are now genuinely concerned over the way many are being operated.

SCHOOL BUSES ARE BEING INSPECTED

The Department of Education has started its annual inspection of school buses and public transport about 400 buses and Virginia, which is in addition to the annual check of motor vehicles, will be 4,600 public school buses state, according to Supervisor of Public Safety for the Department.

The inspection will meet bus specifications established by the State Board of Education and legal requirements regarding safety equipment.

This annual inspection, he said, is a regulation by the State Board of Education of mechanics in a county-operated school bus shop and maintained, in addition to inspections by the county school officials. Wimbish said, about 1,200 buses have more than 461,800,000 passengers and 7,377 children only one accident involving children while riding buses.

He cited a marked improvement in school bus records over the years, crediting highways to board of education, school buses. During the past 10 said, millions of miles were made by children from school buses with accident that the inspection and strict standards and equipment, good cooperation of the Department of Highways and Department of Motor Vehicles, officials has enabled such an outstanding record, Wimbish said. Inspections, which are being made by the Public Instruction Section, probably will be completed until March 15, he said, depending on the number of school buses. Superintendents of principals, safety patrol, school bus drivers, the motor vehicle laws and State regulations stressing safety during practices.

A county to qualify for state support for pupil transportation must meet requirements of the law and State Board of Education, Wimbish said, about 94 of the buses met these requirements when inspected.

If a defect is found, he said, a report is made to the local school division superintendent. The division superintendent, in turn, notifies the Department of Education when the defect has been corrected.

During 1957-58, the average cost per pupil for the state was $19.97 (12 cents per pupil per day), a figure substantially below the national average of $35.82. The total cost of operations was $7,718,338, of which $5,222,222 was paid by the state to the localities.

SHEARING ADDS VALUE TO CHRISTMAS TREE PLANTINGS

Christmas may seem a long time away, but farmers who are growing Christmas trees may need to do a few jobs now, say foresters at VPI.

They point out that top quality in Christmas trees depends upon a uniform, tapered shape, compactness, and symetry. To grow trees that will qualify as Premium or U .S .No. 1 — top grades under U .S. Christmas tree standards — usually requires some pruning and shearing as the trees mature.

If you are raising Christmas trees for profit, it is good business to aim for top quality markets, the say foresters. In general, the trees should be pruned and sheared for the first time when they are 2½ to 3 feet high. This is usually the second or third year after planting. Then they should be given yearly treatment, as necessary, up to but not in the year of harvest.

The term pruning is generally applied to removal of injured or deformed parts, or of a double leader, which will not be replaced by regrowth. Shearing usually refers to shaping or cutting back current year's growth on terminals and lateral limbs to encourage new growth buds and bushier, more compact developments.

Pines should be sheared soon, before new buds form. Spruces and fir can be sheared in late summer, fall or winter. County agents and local foresters can give specific directions.

Sues Non-Cooking Wife

Los Angeles.- Charging that his wife ordered him to cook his own meals, Sam Liberman, 77, got a divorce from her. He also told the court that when his wife did the cooking, the food she prepared upset his stomach.

Health and Beauty

Looking smart while keeping cool is an art demanding know-how.

First — always keep a very simple hairdo, the shorter the better. Try to avoid wisps and straggling ends.

Wash, shampoo and massage your scalp as often as possible. Protect your hair from over exposure to the sun. The hair can be terribly damaged by too much sun, a fact that is too often overlooked because it does not cause any pain.

Go easy on makeup. Never overdo eye glamour or sun tan from a jar. Wear your sunglasses outdoors, but not indoors. Keep your glasses spotlessly clean and free from scratches.

Wear fresh light cologne in favor of heavy musky perfume.

Choose your summer clothes for coolness as well as becomingness. Shorts are cool and comfortable and attractive on the younger woman with a slim figure. If you are past the age for shorts, or too plump, don't wear them on the streets. Pants of any kind will call attention to figure problems that might otherwise go unnoticed.

Cotton is a cool fabric that washes easily. Choose undergarments of cotton for hot summer days. Stockings are uncomfortable but sometimes necessary. Often you can get away with a light coat of leg makeup. Always wear little cotton or nylon footies to protect your feet and shoes when wearing pumps.

Avoid rushing about whenever possible. Plan to do your shopping early in the morning or during the coolest possible part of the afternoon. It is actually dangerous for a person with a known heart condition to become overheated.

Obeying Too Quickly

Paris, Ill.- For too quickly obeying a patrolman's order to drive to the police station, Fred Ross wound up with $80 in fines.

The patrolman, roaring up behind Ross at the station, wrote out tickets for speeding, running through two stop signs, and illegal parking in front of the station.

About The Home

By Frances Dell

A question a great many homemakers are asking about now is: "Should I or should I not blanch vegetables to prepare them for the freezer?"

We think vegetables should be blanched. There is a strong argument in favor of this process, and, actually, it is not difficult to do. Blanching stops the deterioration of vegetables which occurs after harvesting due to respiration. It nearly sterilizes the vegetables. Loss of vitamins A, B1, B2, and C are retarded during storage.

Scalding not only retards undesirable changes before freezing, but inhibits the development of off-flavors during cold storage, and shawing The characteristic color of a vege'able is "fixed" by blanching.

Speed is important in every step in the process of preparing vegetables for freezing. Allowing vegetables to stand around for more than a few minutes at any stage will result in loss of flavor, color and vitamins.

There is always the possibility that the product may become contaminated with micro-organisms if not handled with speed and care. Properly blanching vegetables in steam or hot water will inactivate the culalose and other enzimes which cause spoilage, flavor loss, and color loss.

Never carry out the blanching process long enough to cook the vegetables to any degree. Vegetables as they come from the blanchier are hot, and if allowed to remain hot will lose flavor, color and vitamin C. They must be cooled at once after they are removed from the blanchier and placed at once in the quick - freeze unit of your deep freezer.

By FASHION Now

There is so much talk among our leading designers concerning the length of our dresses and skirts for fall that we have come to the happy conclusion that anything goes.

The length of any lady's dress should be a very personal thing, and not a fashion code as it has been in the past. Perhaps the designers feel this is true and are really just getting around to making it so.

Why hide a pair of lovely legs under a mid-calf length skirt? On the other hand, why should the woman whose face is her fortune and legs her misfortune expose them anymore than necessary?

This same do-as-you-please feeling is carried over every field of fashion for the coming season. Hats are outstanding as an example. It is definitely the season to drag out the old, or buy the new—just for kicks. The picked fur hat have a new look to them that we have not seen before, however.

Fur trim on suits and dresses is fashionable. If you will remember, fur was very big last fall and winter and chances are that your very good suit from that season featured a fur collar or cuffs.

There has been no change in sweaters. The bulky knit is by far the most outstanding. Hand knits are more expensive, but are so lovely they are hard to resist. Many are imported from Europe.
